Keep the Kidneys Well

Health is Worth Saving, and Some People Know How to Save It.

Many Norway people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Norway citizen's recommendation.

Mrs. Joseph A. Wood, Summer street, Norway, Me., says: "I had been annoyed by backache and kidney trouble for a long time. I tried many remedies, but got no relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Two boxes helped me in every way. I also wish to say that Doan's Kidney Pills cured my little son of kidney weakness and improved his health. You may continue publishing the statement I gave in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago." S-9

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

THE TRUE BOOSTER.

If you like the old town best
If you'd have her lead the rest
Help her grow.
When there's anything to do
Let the fellows count on you
You'll feel badly when it's through.
Don't you know!

If you want to make a hit
Get a name.
If the other fellow's it
Who's to blame?
Spend your money in the town
Where you pull the shiekles down.
Give the man who kicks a frown.
That's the game!

If you're used to giving knocks
Change your style.
Throw bouquets instead of rocks
For awhile.
Let the other fellow roast.
Shun him as you would a ghost.
Meet his hammer with a boast
And a smile.

When a stranger from afar
Come along
Tell him who and what we are.
Make it strong.
Needn't flatter; never bluff.
Tell the truth, for that's enough.
Join the boosters—they're the stuff!
We belong.

CITY MANAGER PLAN
NOW GROWING IN FAVOR

Sumter, S. C., Delighted With Success.
Other Towns Favor It.

Every large corporation employs an expert in its various departments. If a banker needs an expert on credits, it spares no expense in employing such a man, no matter where he may live; if a cotton mill needs a superintendent it employs the best; if a newspaper needs an editor, if a railroad needs an engineer or if a factory needs a manager, it gets the best man possible without asking where he resides.

Sumter, S. C., a city of 10,000 people, employed an expert to manage its city affairs, look after the parks, finances, streets, sewers, police department, fire department and all other municipal businesses. Sumter did not ask this city manager where he lived; he was not elected by the voters and hence the office was taken out of municipal politics. The mayor and councilmen employed the best man they could find and turned over the affairs of the town to him and expected results just as the manager of a factory must get results. The outcome was far more satisfactory than even the most sanguine had hoped for. Expenses and leaks were reduced and efficiency promoted.

Now Whittier, Cal., and Hickory, N. C., are preparing to vote on the question of adopting the city manager plan. Meanwhile, N. C., adopted it soon after the success of the Sumter plan became known. In El Reno, Okla., there is an amendment on foot which would discard the commission plan of government and substitute a council of nine members with a city manager. The city manager plan is also favored in Douglas, Ariz.

These are small communities, it is true, but it shows the trend of sentiment in the direction of introducing experts into municipal government.

A Dean Who Knew.
"Young ladies," said the dean of a certain woman's college to the senior class on its first Sunday gathering, "all of you who do not care to go to church may step out into the corridor."

About sixty of the eighty odd girls made a prompt exodus.
"Now, ladies," said the dean to the remaining twenty-five who liked religion, "you may all do as you like. The other sixty will be marched to chapel. They need it!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a running sound or ringing in the ears, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are cured by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Sent for circulars to Dr. J. C. Katz, 205 N. 3rd St., St. Louis, Mo.

The Finest Laxative
In 3000 Years

PURE CASTOR OIL, TASTELESS.
Tasteless in the True Sense. Not Flavored or Altered. The Smell and Taste Removed.

For 2,000 years castor oil has been the world's best laxative, but until now an offensive, sickening taste has limited its use.

For 2,000 years chemists have tried to remove the taste. Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil is just what the name means—a pure, clear, refined oil without any taste. It is a new discovery of Spencer Kellogg & Sons of Buffalo, large refiners of vegetable oil.

Anybody can disguise the taste of castor oil by mixing it with alcohol, wintergreen, peppermint or other flavors but it remained for the Kelloggs to keep the oil pure and make it tasteless.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil works even better than the old, evil dose, without pain or griping. Children take it easily. Sold now in all drug stores. 25c and 50c. Ask for Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil and look for the trade mark on the label—a green castor leaf, bearing the Kellogg signature. Made only by Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., refiners of vegetable oil.

FEEDING GRAIN TO COWS ON PASTURE

The question is frequently asked whether it is economical to feed grain to cows during the pasture season. writes E. V. Ellington in Orange Judd Farmer. On this question there is a considerable difference of opinion. Judging by the direct results in milk production from feeding grain to cows on succulent and abundant pasture, there seems to be no profit in such a procedure. While there may be some increase in milk yields, the increased yields do not in all instances pay for the grain consumed.

The pastures in the early spring are immature, and the grass contains a high percentage of water and a low percentage of dry matter, and the high producing cow does not secure sufficient nutrients to furnish the needs of the body and maintain a large production of milk. For a cow of this type—that is, one that produces one to two pounds of butter fat daily, a grain ration should be fed.

The Owl's Design, here pictured, is a pure bred Jersey cow owned by the Kansas State Agricultural college, is the first Jersey in Kansas to make over 700 pounds of butter in a year. She completed her record on the 17th of March and made during the year 14,000 pounds of milk and 550 pounds of butter fat, which is equivalent to 750 pounds of butter. The milk record classes The Owl's Design among the first seven Jersey cows of the world. Only six have made more than this amount, according to R. M. Gow of the American Jersey Cattle club.

tion should supplement the pasture and she should be allowed all the leguminous hays that she will consume.

The cow that is producing an average quantity of milk—say from twenty-five to thirty pounds of milk of average quality—will, produce but little more when fed grain to supplement good pasture and for economy of production should not be so fed. Experimentation has proved that an additional pound of milk was secured for each pound of grain fed, but it was observed that cows that received grain during the pasture season gave 16 per cent better returns after the grazing period was over than those that received no grain. In other words, there was an increase in weight in the lot that were fed grain which resulted in the laying up of a considerable amount of surplus nutrients on their body which was utilized in future production.

Wearing the Pigs.
Some people seem anxious to wear the pigs. I do not believe a person should be in too much of a hurry about this, however, says a correspondent of the Kansas Farmer. As a matter of fact, there is no feed quite so good as their own mother's milk. There is a limit, of course, for the length of time she can provide this food. If the sow is to raise two litters each year we must not expect her to care for each litter as long a time as when she raises only one.

If she is holding up fairly well in flesh I would not hesitate to leave the pigs with her nine or ten weeks. When you start to wean the pigs do not take the whole litter away at once. This will not only prevent the sow worrying, but it will probably avoid trouble with her udder. Take away the two hardest youngsters first, and then, after a day or two, remove one or two more. Keep this up until the whole litter has been taken away.

Removal of Shoe Bolts.
To remove a shoe bolt, if you cannot employ a graduate veterinarian, says the Farm Journal, proceed as follows: Put a twitch on the horse's nose and have one fore foot held up by an attendant. Make a single loop knot or noose on a length of piano wire. Put the loop over the shoe bolt and pull tight so as to make the tumor have as narrow a neck as possible. Now cut off the shoe bolt by means of a red hot batched shaped iron or cut it off with a sharp scalpel and at once stop the bleeding by cauterization with a thermo cautery or red hot iron. This leaves a large, flat wound, but it is surprising how quickly it heals and what a small bluish (scar) it leaves if simply wetted a number of times a day with a lotion composed of one ounce of sugar of lead and six drams of sulphate of zinc shaken up in a pint of water.

DAIRY POINTERS.

The milk check is not an accident. It's the result of good, careful handling with conscientious feeding.

The safest way to salt the cows is to keep a supply before them at all times.

It's a mistaken policy to let the dry cow rustle for herself. She should have good care if she is expected to do well at the next freshening.

Success does not lie in the number of cows the dairyman keeps, but in the kind he keeps and the way he keeps them.

Be sure that the calves are started right. Feed regularly, not too much at a time, and young calves at least four times a day.

Individual excellence is the only safe guide to be depended upon in selecting cows to build up a good herd.

STALLION TO PATRONIZE.

Avoid Using Animals With Glaring Faults of Conformation.

Soundness and pure breeding come first in the selection of the stallion to patronize, writes Annandale in the National Stockman. Too much hurry is to be avoided. Nature abhors the union of widely differing types. It is a mistake to mate very small mares with very large stallions. Better make the advance in two generations than try to span the gap at one jump. The more closely the united types resemble each other the greater will be the likelihood of the progeny striking the happy medium desired. The greater the dissimilarity between the united types the more certain the production of low class offspring, presenting the characters of both parents in ill assorted proportions.

Breeding is by no means a matter governed by rule of thumb. In a general way the offspring will partake of the characteristics of both sire and dam, but nature has a mean trick of perpetuating the bad qualities at the expense of the good. This must always be taken closely into consideration.

Avoid using a stallion with any glaring fault of conformation or disposition.

A sour head, a lop ear, small eye, ewe neck, long weak back, drooping rump, short rib or a narrow, boxy, mulelike foot is almost certain to be transmitted if possessed by one parent, no matter how good the other may be in that particular point. There may be a modification for the better, but the rule is that any glaring fault of conformation is practically certain to be transmitted, and for that reason mares faulty in any regard which means depreciation of value should not be used as breeders. Stallions cannot do it all. Mares have just as much to do with molding the progeny. Very inferior specimens should not be mated. It is substantially impossible to eradicate their defects. Avoid using either stallion or mare particularly weak in any part. It is better to use a stallion moderately good at all points than one transcendently superior in some and glaringly faulty in others.

Eschew light boned sires, no matter what the breed. Be careful to avoid thin, shelly feet, stubby pasterns, sickle hocks and calf knees, together with long weak backs and short ribs. These defects of conformation are worse than some actual unsoundnesses and are renamed to emphasize the necessity of avoiding them. Good temper, docility and high courage are always assets worth cash.

A Heifer's First Calf.

A good deal of loose, unfounded doctrine is floating about in dairy circles. One is that a heifer's first calf, male or female, is apt not to prove as efficient in dairy work as those of her maturer years, says Hoard's Dairyman. We cannot find that there has been any attempt to secure substantial data on this question. We know in our own experience of twenty-five years of special breeding that some of our best animals were the first calves of two-year-old heifers. Among them was the bull Hispanore II, who stands in the Advanced Registry with seven daughters to his credit.

But the most notable example in this direction is the world famous Jersey cow Jacoba Irene. The Jersey Bulletin in commenting upon this fact says: "Jacob Irene, the world's champion long distance dairy cow, was the first calf of her dam, born before her mother was two years old."

Raise the Calves.

Raise the calves on the farm, have enough to ship in car lots, feed well and make money. In this way the risk is reduced, the investment lessened, the cost of production cheapened, rough materials are consumed and the land benefited. It doesn't cost much to raise well bred calves to baby beef age, and it does keep the working equipment of the farm in profitable use the year round. A carload of home grown steers turned off each year will go a long way toward reducing the operating expenses of the farm.

Worm Medicine For Horses.

Santonine, twenty grains; powdered calumba root, sulphate of iron and Barbados aloes, two drams of each, excipient to one ounce. Get three balls made and give at intervals on the morning of a rest day.—American Cultivator.

Clean Milk.

A wire strainer is more harmful than good. If you have clean, fresh cloth strainers for each milking they will save a lot of trouble and maybe explain why the milk has soured.

Barber—Hair's going gray, sir. Little Binks—Expect it is. Haven't you nearly finished?

To Restore Good Health

The first thing to do is to correct the minor ailments caused by defective or irregular action of the organs of digestion and elimination. After these organs have been put in good working order by timely use of

BEECHAM'S PILLS

(The Largest Sale of Any Medicine in the World)

better digestion results, and then the food really nourishes and strengthens the body. The first dose gives relief and sounder sleep, quieter nerves, and improved action of all the bodily organs are caused by an occasional use of Beecham's Pills. NEW PERFUME BOTTLES.

How to Make Stand For Small Cologne Bottle.

Most women like to have a bottle of eau de cologne on their dressing table, for apart from the refreshing toilet properties of this scent, it is exceedingly useful in case of a sick headache or sudden attack of faintness. A little stand accompanying it has many merits, for it not only provides a touch of dainty coloring for one's bedroom, but also keeps the bottle from being easily knocked over and broken.

Scent bottles are made in standard sizes, so before commencing to make the stand procure the bottle of eau de cologne. Then take careful measurements, and your case will fit properly and can be refilled at will. To make the stand cut a round of stiff cardboard three inches larger in diameter than the bottle and another strip of cardboard which when joined will allow the bottle to be lifted in and out with ease.

Cover both the surfaces with fancy silk or ribbon and line with either the same silk or a piece of thin white satin. Oversew all the edges and then stitch the upright portion of the case to the center of the base. The oversewed edges are trimmed with fine cord and a spray of artificial flowers or a smart bow of ribbon attached to the stand. Let the case be in keeping with the character of the scent. For instance, a bottle of violet extract could be incased in mauve figured silk or embossed velvet and decorated with a bunch of ribbon violets.

How to Restore Craze.

It costs from $2.50 to $5 to restore a widow's veil, the price depending upon the size of it, but the work can be done at home for nothing at all, even by an unskilled person. You lay a folded sheet upon a table and pin down the veil to it very carefully. The hems must be straight and all edges laid flat. Then you take a clean white cloth wrung out of hot water and lay over a portion of the craze.

When the veil is smooth hold a very hot iron over the wet cloth and about two inches away from it. It must never for a moment touch the wet rag. Go all over the craze as directed and do not take from the sheet until perfectly dry. The craze will then be crisp and, in fact, exactly like new.

No matter how wrinkled it may have been before, it will be perfectly smooth now. Smaller pieces of craze may be renovated in the same way.

How to Clean Light Cloth Suit.

Buy two large blocks of magnesia. Lay suit or white felt hat on sheet on flat surface and rub into the garment as much magnesia as it will hold. Do both sides. Lay article away in sheet for a week or more; then take up, shake and brush. The suit will be much cleaner and fresher. It is very good for white felt hats and baby coats.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Visit to The Old Man In the Woods.

JACK and Evelyn were waiting for daddy to come home. They were through playing games, and as they felt quite tired the only thing they wanted was daddy's story. So as soon as he came into their room Evelyn rushed up to him and said, "Daddy, do tell us tonight a story about a little girl."

"Well," said daddy, "a little boy named Bobbie had a sister named Agnes. They were just about the same ages that you two children are. They had very few neighbors, as they lived in a very small place where there were only a few houses. Near their house were long stretches of woods. They had never been to the other side of the woods nor had they ever really walked very far into the forest, for it was said in the little hamlet where they lived that a queer old man had a little hut about a mile and a half through the long lonely road. The reports of him also were that he lived all by himself and that he ate rabbits and partridges, for which he went hunting every day. But no one had ever seen him, as they were all afraid of him."

"One day Bobbie and Agnes had been playing all the games they could think of. You see, there were no other children in the tiny town, and so they always had to play by themselves. Of course they were devoted to each other and had a very good time, but sometimes they would have liked a change."

"This day, though, they were tired of all their usual games. 'Let's go and see the old man in the woods,' suggested Bobbie."

"Do you dare?" asked Agnes.

"Yes," said Bobbie. "For I'm sure he is not so dreadful as he is made out to be, and, anyway, I'd like to see him."

"So would I," responded Agnes.

"Now, the mother and daddy of Agnes and Bobbie had never told them not to go into the woods to the old man's hut, as they never for a moment dreamed they would dare go."

"But off they started, and after walking quite a distance they came to a funny little hut with smoke coming out of the chimney. When the old man saw Bobbie and Agnes he called out in a happy, excited voice: 'I'm having visitors! Hurrah!'"

"He took the children in his hut and showed them some wonderful picture books. He told them how delighted he was to have visitors, as he knew he was thought queer, but really he wasn't at all, except that he loved to live in the heart of the woods. So the children promised to see him often, and he promised to show them more picture books, and before they left he gave them each a big piece of delicious apple pie."

ABE JEDFOOT, ESQ.

Tells His Friend, the Colonel, of Two Big Schemes.

A LOT OF WASTED ENERGY.

Sees Wonderful Possibilities In Jumping Frogs and Discovers That There Is No Occasion For a Cow to Switch Her Tail.

By M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.

"LOOK a-heeh, Kurnel Dawson," began Abe Jedfoot, the lawyer, as he met the colonel in the postoffice, "people in this county are callin' me lazy and shiftless and sayin' I won't never amount to cobs with the co'n shucked off. Hev I had a fair show in this county? Hasn't everybody tried to keep me down from the beginnin'?"

"Nice day, Abe," said the colonel as he dodged the question.

"Powerful nice day, kurnel, and I want yo' to listen to me fur a few minutes. I've got some schemes I want to unfold and ask yo' about. Kurnel, how fur kin the average frog jump?"

"Six feet, I reckon."

"That's the distance, kurnel, to an inch. Now then, how many frogs in the United States?"

"Shoo! I couldn't guess that, Abe."

"Well, sah, I kin. I put down the number at 250,000,000. Those are all

"JUMPIN' SIX FEET AT A CLIP."

jumpin' frogs, every one of 'em jumpin' six feet at a clip and forty jumps a day. That's 240 feet a day fur each and every frog. In one day the frogs of America jump 60,000,000,000 feet. Think of the result fur a month, fur a year!"

"It's tremendous, Abe, positively tremendous!" gasped the colonel.

"Yo' bet it is, and they all jump fur a year. See the pint, kurnel? See my little scheme? It's to make them frogs jump fur business instead o' sport. In other words, make use of the power exercised. It can be stored like electricity and made use of to run every factory in the world. Ten jumpin' frogs, each one jumpin' six feet, make enough power to run a sewing machine half an hour. Every 100 frogs will run a grist mill half a day. That's jest common jumpin'. Hire a boy to go around with a pole and stir 'em up, and each frog will jump nine feet and never tech a foot. 'The more frogs the more jumps; the more power the more factories and the cheaper they kin be run."

"And look, beah, kurnel," continued Abe as he pushed the colonel against the wall and held him there. "I'm no man to give my soul up to one scheme."

How many cows in the United States, kurnel?"

"Shoo! Heaps of 'em."

"About 40,000,000, kurnel, and fly-time lasts an average of fo' months, or 120 days. Fur fo' months every cow is switchin' her tail twelve hours per day. That's 1,440 hours to a cow, or about 8,000,000,000 hours fur all of 'em. Every time a cow switches her tail she puts fo'th power enough to wind up the family clock. She switches thirty-five times an hour, or 420 times per day. The power fur one day would run a street car five miles. The tail power of 2,000,000 cows fur 120 days would run all the sawmills in the country all winter. It's a double barreled scheme, kurnel—one that works both ways. Every time a cow switches her tail it reduces her strength and takes away from the quantity of milk. I figger that twelve hours' switchin' takes away at least a pint. That's a loss of 1,000,000 quarts a day."

"But cows have got to switch," said the colonel.

"Yo' mean their tails hev got to twist around and skeer the flies off? Yes, of co'se, though it don't do any good as the flies come right back. But the idea is to fasten a spring to each cow's tail and make the spring do the work. How does it strike yo', kurnel?"

"It's a big thing, Abe—the biggest thing I ever heard of!" exclaimed the colonel as they shook hands.

"Oh, by the way, kurnel!"

"What is it, Abe?"

"That's Joe Taylor's saloon right across the road, and bein' yo' was kind nuff to invite me to licker I don't mind if I take a leetle co'n juice—just a leetle to keep the skin on my ears from peelin' off, you know!"

A LOST VOTE.

I SHALL not vote for Mrs. Diggs. I do not like her gown. And I remember well the digs I got from Clara Brown.

Jemima Patterson Mages. Shall get no vote of mine. A halfpenny thing is she. And I also decline.

To vote for Anastasia Burns. I fairly boil with rage.

When I recall that more than once she lied about my age.

And about Jones and Agnes Carr. And Clementina Bell.

I'll scratch because they never are "At home" the days I call.

I cannot vote, you understand. For Angelina Pratt.

Because she isn't stylish and she wears a last year's hat.

Oh, goodness me, that brings me through "The list." The ballot's small.

There's no one left! What shall I do? I cannot vote at all!

—Springfield Union.

A Sure Thing.

According to a nurse in one of the big hospitals, a visiting-surgeon recently caused a robust patient almost to collapse by joking with him after an operation.

"What are my chances for recovery?" asked the patient.

"Splendid," said the surgeon.

"What do you mean by splendid?"

"Why, you have one chance in twenty for recovery."

"That is not very encouraging. I can't see how my chances are as splendid as you say."

"Well, I'll explain," said the surgeon. "In this particular operation it is generally conceded that there is one chance in twenty for the patient to recover. The last nineteen patients I have operated upon for your complaint died, so you are the one out of the twenty who ought to recover."—New York Tribune.

ECONOMY.

One of the greatest curses of American civilization today is the fact that it is unfashionable to save and that the people are ashamed to save, while extravagance, waste and carelessness are looked upon as smart and signs of prosperity.

SOUTH WATERFORD.

The public service for Valley Spring Lodge, Knights of Pythias, in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the order at Grange hall on Sunday last was omitted on account of the severe storm of Saturday. The service is only postponed to a near future date.

Mrs. Minnie Guilford of New Hampshire is visiting her mother, Mrs. Nellie Billings, and family.

Intelligence of the recent death of Maurice B. Patch of Buffalo, N. Y., has been received from a friend residing in Malden, Mass. Mr. Patch was a native of Otisfield and was 62 years old at his decease. His father was Benjamin Patch and his mother, Elizabeth Knight, both of old leading families of the town. He removed in his childhood with his family to Lowell, Mass., and received his education in the schools of that city and in the institute of Technology of Massachusetts, with the degree of Bachelor of Science in 1872 at the age of 20. His special studies were in mining and engineering, and during a professional career of more than 40 years he had a most successful career in Colorado, Michigan and in Buffalo, as an expert professor of Metallurgy, especially in copper ones, and was distinguished in the best scientific circles for his profound researches in those branches of industry. Mr. Patch was held in the highest esteem socially, and was promoted to honorable civil offices in civil life, holding at his death the important position of Chairman of the Grade Crossing Commission. His death occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Barr in Derby, N. Y., Mrs. Barr being a daughter of Mr. Patch. He is survived by a widow, three sons and two daughters. His remains were buried from his late residence, 822 Elmwood Avenue, Buffalo.

ALBANY.

A. G. Bean and wife have been visiting their three sons at Lewiston, Auburn and Oxford for a week.

Wallace E. Cummings, who has been at home for a month or more looking after the sick folks and doing chores, has come back to the Corner again to work for Abel and Arthur Andrews cutting timber.

Abel and Arthur Andrews have the larger part of their pulp wood hauled off of the mountain and a good share of it hauled to the brook.

Archie Bass, who has been stopping near Mechanic Falls for the last three or four years with Henry Cross, has come back to Albany and gone to work for Isaac Merrill and son in their new mill in the East part of the town.

D. A. Cummings is having a bad time with his foot. The gangrene has got into it so he is about the same as laid up.

Feb. 12th, was one of the coldest days we ever had. Too cold for man or beast to work out doors. Saturday, Feb. 14th, we had a heavy snow storm; the roads were so badly drifted our mail carrier could not get through.

WEST SUMNER.

A successful term of school taught by Edith Barrett closed Saturday, Feb. 14. Some alarm was caused, Monday, by James Tuell's chimney burning out, but the flames were soon under control.

A pleasant evening is reported by those who attended the dance given by the Harmony Club. At intermission one of the Club's excellent oyster stews was served.

Clara Chandler is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ford.

Oscar Chandler recently sold a beef cow to James Tuell.

Elmer Ford is somewhat better.

C. L. Morrill of Woodstock was in town, Tuesday.

Albert Cox is ill with pneumonia.

Ernest DeCoster, who has been confined to the house by illness for the past week, is convalescing.

The remains of George E. Pulsifer, who dropped dead in Waltham, Mass., were sent home, Monday. His funeral took place at the Universalist Church, Tuesday, Feb. 17th. Rev. Chester Miller of South Paris officiated. Mr. Pulsifer is survived by a wife and son.

LOCKE'S MILLS.

Alice Brown of Berlin, N. H., visited the week-end with her mother, Mrs. O. W. Brown.

Lillian Jordan left for her home at Colebrook, N. H., Monday.

C. B. Tibbets and Curtis Abbot were in Portland, recently and attended the auto show.

Iona Tibbets of Bethel visited with Lillian Jordan, Wednesday.

Marie Swan of North Bethel was a guest of her parents, Sunday.

Schools closed here, Thursday. Friday, the teachers and twenty of their scholars attended the Art Exhibit at Bethel.

The dance by the Justamere Club, which was to have been held Thursday evening, was postponed on account of the severe cold.

Mildred Brown of Bethel was a guest at Walter Knight's, Sunday.

Largest storm of the season, Saturday. The afternoon trains were four hours late.

SWEDEN.

Walter E. Gordon and daughter Lillian have visited friends and relatives in Portland and Biddeford.

The Busy Bee Club held their meeting at the home of Mrs. Guy L. Tower on Knight's hill, Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 4. After working on some pretty fancy work the girls enjoyed a peanut hunt and after a treat of fudge, games were enjoyed until the party broke up.

Edwin Berry has left his logging job with E. C. Tower. Calvin G. Briggs has taken his place.

FRYEBURG CENTER.

On account of the heavy fall of snow, there was not any Rebekah meeting, Saturday night.

Gertrude Meserve is working at Chas. Gray's for a few weeks.

Mrs. Chandler Buzzell has gone to North Fryeburg to care for her brother, who has rheumatic fever.

School closes, Friday, after a very successful term taught by Bertha Meserve. Dora Nelson has returned to Chandler Buzzell's after a month's vacation.

Isabel Noyes and son, Max, attended the Clerk's ball at Norway, Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Charles Gray is gaining slowly, her trained nurse having left her. Thursday, Laurence and Lyman Gray have been sick with colds the past week.

GET RID OF HUMORS AND AVOID SICKNESS

Hood's Sarsaparilla, Old-time Remedy, Purifies the Blood.

Humors in the blood cause internal derangements that affect the whole system, as well as pimples, boils and other eruptions. They may be either inherited or acquired. They affect all the organs and functions, membranes and tissues, and are directly responsible for the readiness with which some people contract disease.

For forty years Hood's Sarsaparilla has been more successful than any other medicine in expelling humors and removing their inward and outward effects. It is distinguished for its thoroughness in purifying the blood, which it enriches and invigorates. No other medicine acts like it, for no other has the same formula or ingredients. Get Hood's Sarsaparilla today. Insist on having Hood's.

WEST BETHEL.

Mrs. Vienna Holt. Sunday, Feb. 15 occurred the funeral of Mrs. Vienna Holt, who died Feb. 12, aged 75 years. On account of the severe storm the funeral was held at her home. Rev. J. H. Little speaking words of comfort. The funeral was in charge of Fred Tibbets. Interment in Pine Grove Cemetery.

Her husband, the late Milton Holt died fifteen years ago. She had three sisters and one brother, who survive her. Those from out of town to attend the funeral were Milton Bean from Medford, Mass., Mrs. Jennie Horton from West Acton, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Otis Gilman from Lovell, Frank Kimball, Lewey, Mrs. Holt has been kindly cared for this winter by her sister, Mrs. Mary Bean.

On account of the severe storm and cold there was no school Monday.

Mrs. H. P. Denison was quite ill, Saturday.

Monday the road machine was out in full force. The road across the Flat is said to be in a bad condition.

LOVELL.

Walter H. Eastman was drawn juryman to attend the March term of school.

Mrs. James Chirles has been quite sick.

The water works at the village are out of commission. The pipe is frozen or burst. People have to lug their water from the well by C. K. Chapman's.

The selectmen are busy closing up the business of the year.

Gay Morse's little girl has been very sick but is some better.

There will be two more nights of dancing school. It has been a large school and the young people have enjoyed it very much.

John E. Emery, Lovell's oldest citizen, will be 91 years old Feb. 20. He had the best garden in town last year and does all the work in it. May be and his good wife live years yet in their pleasant home, is the wish of their many friends in this and surrounding towns.

SUCKFELD.

Streaked Mountain. Walter Conant and Gene Verrill are hunting the pulp wood from the C. E. Foster lot to Hebron station.

Richmond Taylor, who has been at Charles Maxim's several days, has returned home.

Mrs. Ames has so far recovered from her recent illness as to be able to return to H. N. Stone's where she works.

Frank Jewell spent the week-end with his wife in Norway.

Mrs. E. C. Foster, who was ill for a few days last week, is much improved.

Mrs. Lilla Benson is working for Fred Kneese of East China.

George Maxim was in Portland a few days last week, visiting Charles Yeaton.

By far the hardest storm of the winter occurred Saturday. In the roads there were many drifts three to four feet deep, and it took the men with their teams all day, Sunday, to make travelling possible.

Mrs. Ralph Stone was calling in Buckfield, Wednesday.

On account of the cold weather Charles Clark did not make his customary trip to Mechanic Falls this week.

Mrs. James Bumpus and daughter, Alice were in Lewiston last week.

Merton Stone spent Sunday with his mother in Buckfield.

Ralph Stone was in Norway, Thursday.

WATERFORD.

Mrs. Rideout left Saturday morning for a visit to relatives in Winchester, Mass.

Eleanor Huse of Boston is the guest of Mrs. Ellen Knight.

Will Heath is breaking his pair of colts. They bid fair to make a fine working team.

On account of the storm the exchange between Rev. H. H. Hoyt of Hiram and our minister was postponed until next Sunday. Also the anniversary service of the Knights of Pythias was put over to next Sunday in the South Waterford Grange hall at 2.30 p. m. In consequence of this action the service which was to be held in East Waterford school-house next Sunday at 2 p. m., will be held on the 1st of March at the same hour.

John Craig of Portland spent several days last week at the Lake House.

OXFORD.

Rev. Harry Upton of Portland and a student at Colby, came to Sunday for Mr. Lindsey, but owing to the storm of Saturday there was no service in the Methodist church at Oxford or Welchville. Mr. Upton preached in the Congregational chapel, Sunday evening.

Rev. Malcolm McKay attended the Boys' conference at Lewiston. He was unable to get home to preach to his people, Sunday morning.

Rev. Mr. Faulkingham of the Advent church was more fortunate than the others for he had a small congregation to preach to.

Mrs. Henry Jenkins went to Portland, Monday, to Dr. Cousins' hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Evelyn LeBlond stepped on a broken stair in the mill, Saturday noon, and twisted her ankle and broke her leg. She was carried to her mother's, Mrs. Mary Irving's.

HOW TO DRESS FOR WINTER MOTORING.

A woman who has toured much says that for a long run in cold weather she designed a scheme of attire that proved entirely satisfactory, and her advice, being based on experience, is likely to prove of use to readers, so it is handed on. Protection from cold being the great point, she had a serge skirt made, lined to give extra warmth, and with this wore a plain silk skirt and pulled over it a white jersey, with a collar coming well up around the neck, on the style of the ordinary fisherman's knitted ones. Over this came a dark blue fur lined motor coat, and for headgear she wore a knitted cap with ear flaps that fastened under the chin. As a result there was no veil to get untidy or blown about, no risk from chilly air, while the cap fitted closely enough to keep the coiffure perfectly in order whatever the speed or the amount of wind that might be blowing.

MINIATURE HOUSE.

How to Make Kiddies Happy With New Plaything.

The fastidious small doll need no longer use a special sort of furniture, which comes from Germany and has been in vogue in doll-dom for years, of somewhat uncertain period and style. She can now find in some of the most exclusive shops perfect miniature copies of the mahogany furniture used in the house of her small mistress' parents and yet of a size suitable for a doll's house.

Highboys eight or ten inches high, old fashioned cradles, bureaus, chairs and beds can all be obtained in mahogany stained wood. A diminutive mirror, gilt framed and with a pretty colored print in a small panel at the top, suitable for hanging over the highboy, can also be had for the asking. Simple brass candlesticks and tiny white wax candles would be suitable accessories for a colonial room in a doll's house, and rag rugs, crocheted, can be purchased in sizes beginning as small as three inches in diameter. White enameled furniture for the doll's house is made for bedrooms, living rooms and dining rooms, and a whole house can now be furnished in white.

All the latest conveniences and labor saving devices, vacuum cleaners, sewing machines, typewriters, chafing dishes and automobiles are also made in sizes suitable for the doll's house of medium size. Fireplaces, with ever burning fires of tinsel, come five inches high, with andirons and bellows in a stand at their side. Tea sets, perfect in every detail; tray, teakettle, teapot, cups and saucers, with tiny spoons and sugar-tongs, sets of dishes and table linen, birds in cages, desk sets with pen, paper and desk pad; toilet articles for dressing table and washstand, fur rugs and telephone are all now made for the doll's house.

FEATHER BOAS.

How to Renovate These Modish Much Worn Accessories.

A fine and rather windy day should be chosen for the washing of feather boas. It should be proceeded with in the following manner:

Make a nice warm lather of soapy water. Care must be taken to see that the soap is thoroughly dissolved. Into this dip the boas, etc., gently squeezing them. The soil will quickly come out into the water. Dip them thus again and again, then get a second lot of water and repeat the dipping. When the water remains clean the washing process is finished. Avoid rubbing the boas. Let the water do the work.

After the last water the boas should be rinsed, and if a pure white color is desired dip in a faint blue water.

The boas must now be shaken well. At this stage they will look quite ruined, but an hour or so's hanging in the air will make them perfect once more. The feathers if curly before will be so again, and if not known it would never be suspected that they had ever been in water.

Before putting the boas away they should be gently shaken before the fire, and at any time if the boas are exposed to damp this will revive them.

How to Keep Shoes Clean.

Twenty-five cents is the price of a little contrivance which any man would appreciate, and there is no reason why it should not find favor with busy women too. It is a shoe polisher which can be carried about in the pocket or handbag.

It is a little strip of lamb's wool a couple of inches wide and twice as long, backed with a piece of leather. When the polisher is not in use it is rolled up with the leather side out and clasped shut with a ball and socket clasp.

How to Make Economical Jelly.

One pint of cranberries, four large apples, one cupful of boiling water, two cupfuls of sugar, one-third cupful of cold water, two-thirds inch piece of stick cinnamon, twelve whole cloves, four allspice berries and a grain of salt. Slice and core apples. Add to cranberries with boiling water and let boil until berries are soft. Rub through a sieve, add remaining ingredients, except salt, and bring to boiling point and simmer fifteen minutes. Add salt, turn into mold and chill.

It is said that a full grown elephant is strong enough to carry three tons on its back.

A CLERGYMAN'S STORY

Came Near Losing His Life—How He Escaped

REV. G. W. ROBERTS,
R. R. 2, Box 27,
Hartsell, Ala.

We quote from another letter, dated December 10, 1906: "I praise Peruna to all the sick. The people know my case, and they praise it also."

In a letter dated November 22, 1909, we quote Rev. Roberts: "Peruna gave me back my life ten years ago. All my acquaintances know that. I am certainly thankful to you for your kindness."

In a later letter, dated January 13, 1910, he says: "I shall ever in the future, as in the past, be ready to speak in praise of Peruna to all sufferers. I believe my miraculous cure has been the means of many others being cured in this country."

From a letter of September 5, 1911, we quote a few words: "I am still among the living. As to Peruna, I do not feel that I have words to express the faith I have in its merits. I feel that Peruna has been the means, through the kind providence of God, of prolonging my life for more than ten years."

We quote a still later letter, October 31, 1912. He says: "I took a severe cold three weeks ago. I at once sent for Peruna. Have been taking it two weeks. I am now better. I consider that Peruna has carried me over a dozen years of life. I always stand ready to answer any question in reference to Peruna."

We quote from his last letter, dated January 2, 1913: "Dear Friends: I wish this bright New Year to express my thanks to you for your kindness. Trusting that you may have a successful and happy year, and that your medicine may prove a blessing to many, as it has to me, I am yours as ever, G. W. Roberts, Hartsell, Alabama, R. F. D. 2, Box 27."

It is not necessary for us to add any words to this story. The eloquence and pathos of these letters are more convincing than arguments or affidavits. Who can doubt the clergyman's story? Who can doubt that Peruna saved his life?

Every home should be provided with the last edition of the "His of Life," sent free by the Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio.

The Faith of Mari

A Case of Too Many Wires

By AGNES G. BROGAN

A great city. There is a noise in the streets, over the streets, under the streets. A whirling mass of human beings in the morning rolls down from the north like the ebbing tide and flows up again in the evening. And all night the whirl goes on, but a different whirl. There is a glow of electric lights; the streets are full now not of workers, but of pleasure seekers. They pour into the theaters, into the hotels, into the restaurant. And then they pour out again.

Captives in the cage of the city jail, men moved about like bees in some mammoth hive, and not unlike the buzzing of bees came the continual hum of their low voiced conversation. Here rough faced men passed the anxious hours, engaged boisterously in a game of cards, while over there others sat lost in deep brooding dejection.

One figure alone seemed to stand apart, different from them all. This difference might have been accounted for by the jaunty suit and cap and the high white collar which the young man wore; but after all, it was a certain infectious light of good humor in the boyish blue eyes, an irresponsible air of happiness, which distinguished Peter Olaf from his companions in crime. Once again he walked the length of the long room, keeping time to his step by a subdued though merry whistle; then he paused sociably at the side of a prisoner who glowered up at him. Peter spoke with a soft foreign accent.

"That makes twelve times around," he said. The man addressed lumbered to his feet, joining the youth in his walk.

"What chu here for?" he growled. The boyish blue eyes widened, while a dull red crept to the blond hair on Peter's forehead. "Bigamy," he announced briefly. The elder man stood still with a muttered exclamation.

"Bigamy," he repeated, and exclaimed again—"bigamy, a kid like you? What chu do it for?" Peter Olaf shook his head. "I didn't mean to," he said slowly. "I—I don't know."

"It just happened. Far away in Russia was Mari. Before I came to this new country, Mari and I were married."

"Some day I would send her money; then she must come to me. So I told her we would be rich here and happy. And Mari was glad. At first I wrote to her long letters, and then—Peter stopped abruptly. When he spoke again his tone was harder, more constrained.

"Well, in the house where I boarded lived Bianca. I was lonely here in the strange country—oh, very, very lonely."

"Bianca was most kind and beautiful. Together we went to many places—out upon the ferryboats in the moonlight, down to the sands of the sea. And Mari seemed to fade away so far I could scarce remember her face! It grew dim like a dream one has almost forgot."

"And so I did not send to Mari the money. May not one have a new wife in a new country when one shall never return to the old? Bianca also had a lover who would have married her."

"This she told me." The boy passed his hand across his forehead. "So what could I do?" he asked. "Could I lose Bianca?" And then that very day when we were married Mari comes along to this country. Alone she had worked and saved, and now she is here."

"And Mari asks them to find me for her—the officials—and when they find me I am married again. So you see it is bigamy. That is what they tell me, and I must be held for trial." The boy clutched the prisoner's sleeve fearfully. "What will they do with me?" he cried.

The hardened man, whose own crime had brought suffering to many, stared disgustedly into the frightened face. "Do with you," he answered fiercely. "Do with you? I don't know, but I hope they will lock you up. I hope they make you work as she never thought of working—that little Russian thing you deserted. Chances are they won't do it, though. That innocent baby face of yours will carry you through. You'll only be deported."

"Deported?" questioned the boy eagerly. The man turned on his heel. "Yes," he answered gruffly—"sent back where your kind belong."

"Peter Olaf stood considering. He seemed to see again the little village that had been his home, the tiny schoolhouse where he and Mari had gone so many years together. Then across his memory flashed a picture of Bianca—Bianca of the crimson lips and laughing eyes. The great eeked doors just beyond the heavy screen opened now and closed with much grating of locks. As through a mist he saw the figures of an officer and a girl.

"Forty-five!" rang out the officer's voice, and the girl's slender figure came waveringly, indistinctly, toward him. A moment she stood, her white face pressed close against the veiling wires, her dark eyes shining golden black in the reflected light. Then with a joyful, half inarticulate cry Mari clasped her trembling hands.

"Peter," she whispered—"oh, Peter!"

Dumbly this guilty youth stood peering through his cage. The woeen shawl which the girl wore fell back from her head, revealing the well remembered clustering curls. The sound of his home tongue upon her lips brought a sob to Peter's throat.

"I came," Mari went on breathlessly, "to you, beloved. Because you had not been able to send me money, should that then keep us apart? So I worked and worked." The words melted into a soft, little laugh. "Oh, you did not know that I could be so clever, Peter—could of myself earn so much money, enough to bring me to the far America. But me, alone—I did it." The triumphant tone turned now to one of deep compassion. "And you, my Peter—the girl said quickly—"they have made you suffer. Because of a cruel, wicked mistake they have placed you here behind their great locked doors."

"He is married in this country," the man told me, but I ask them how can that be. It is foolish, for I am not here on my husband's record. But the interpreter is very stupid, and he will not understand, and he tells me over and over again, 'Peter Olaf is married,' so I come away angry."

The girl tossed her head. "Be brave, beloved," she said, "and all will yet be well."

"Do not grieve that I must go back, for so they have ordered. 'Return at once to your own country,' the stern man said, as though that were punishment to me. I am glad—glad to go."

"Here the people are so strange and fine and grand; here no one cares. Mari caught her breath sharply. Tears welled in the golden black eyes. She waited, wondering at his silence, and then, with a sudden hopeless gesture, Peter stretched forth his arms.

"Mari," he murmured brokenly, "if I could but touch your hand."

"Have I not, then, the same long—long?" she answered tremulously. "But when they have learned their mistake, Peter, when they know of their wrong, then they will set you free, and you will hasten back to our happy home land."

"There will I be to welcome you and see in the garden our fruits and flowers are growing and upon the hills our sheep. So you will be content and happy forevermore, so you will never care again to wander."

"Mari," the boy cried out in despair, "how may I then come to you—I who am so unworthy?"

An attendant laid a kindly hand upon the girl's shoulder. "Time's up," he reminded. Mari looked back through the screen with reproachful eyes.

"You unworthy, Peter?" she said tenderly. "You—Then obediently Mari followed on up the stair. Outside before the jail a dark faced Italian paused to adjust the golden harp which he carried. At his side, in blarney costume, tripped a red lipped girl. With a swift sidelong glance at the man she fixed her brilliant gaze on Peter.

"I go to there, Toni!" she said. "Not play on the boat today." The Italian stood looking down upon her with a sort of dogged devotion.

"You go to see him, Bianca," he said—"he who was not your husband. He fool you and lie to you, yet you can forgive?" The girl shrugged her shoulders.

"What do I forgive?" she asked pettily. "He leave her for me. If he leave me for her—Bianca's eyes narrowed—"but Petro he not do that," she said. Halfway to the impressive entrance she turned back to smile at him. "You wait for me, Toni!" she called, and the Italian answered with sad resignation.

"Always I wait for you, Bianca."

She smiled at Peter also, showing her pretty white teeth, as he drew near the forbidding screen.

"Hello!" she greeted him gayly. "Hello, but I cannot shake hands."

"Would you?" Peter asked her gravely. "Would you if you could?" "Why not?" laughed Bianca. "You will be free," she added quickly. "Ask the man at the desk if they send you to jail, and he frown, and he say he think not. They send you back perhaps where you belong. But Petro, he whispered softly, "when you are free you will come back to me? Promise. I am your wife."

The boy leaned wearily against the screen. Through it came the fragrant breath of roses in her hair.

"Promise!" the girl carelessly implored him.

"I'll come back to you, Bianca," he answered evenly. She laughed a little as she turned away.

"Goodby," she said. And as she came out again into the light and found the Italian still waiting in patient hopelessness Bianca anticipated the burning question of his eyes.

"No," she said, slowly shaking her head. "No, Toni; he never come back to me; never, any more." The man leaned forward, unbelieving.

"He told you that?" he asked eagerly. "He not tell me," Bianca replied, with a shrewd little smile. "He not need to tell me; I know."

"Beloved!" the man entreated and spoke no other word. For a moment the singing girl swayed her tambourine teasingly before her mocking face; then, suddenly serious, she gazed at him across the tinkling bells.

"Your kind, Toni," she said gently. "The slow kind. It is the best."

And far out upon the pier another girl sat, her upraised face glorified in the light of the setting sun, her dark eyes filled with dreams. "Deported," murmured a pitying voice, but the immigrant girl was smiling happily, as she followed the long line into the great white ship. Mari had entered upon the journey into her promised land.

WEST LOVELL.

Birthday Parties.

A pleasant gathering of friends met at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Fox, Saturday evening, Feb. 7th, as a birthday surprise to their daughter, Leona, whose sixteenth birthday occurred Sunday following, and their niece, Cora Fox, whose sixteenth birthday occurred the Tuesday preceding. Games were indulged in by the young people and some of the older, while the others chatted by the fire side. A treat of popcorn, peanuts, cornballs, mixed candy and fudge was enjoyed by the crowd. Many tokens of remembrance were left as mementos of the occasion.

I noticed the following for Leona: the spoon, Carrol and Gladys McAllister; bow and cup and saucer, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. McAllister; bow, George Nickols; postcard album, Wendell McAllister; bow, Evelyn Bowley; bow, Sarah and Etta Stearns; lace collar, Lillian and Nellie Lord; bow, Webster McAllister; gold glasses chain, father and mother; crocheted handbag and bow, Eva LeBaron; lace collar, Lotta Allard; two handkerchiefs, Geo. Andrews; box stationery, Z. McAllister and wife; plate, Mrs. Kate Williams; handkerchiefs, Myrtle LeBrock; handkerchiefs, grandma Lord; ring, J. H. Fox and wife; god v stch and chain, father and mother; money, V. H. McAllister.

Cora had the following remembrances: cup and saucer and ring, Mr. and Mrs. George McAllister; signet ring, W. S. Fox and wife; bow, George Nickols; plate, Mrs. Kate Williams; lace collar, Lillian and Nellie Lord; tie, Sarah and Etta Stearns; 2 handkerchiefs, Geo. Andrews; hand embroidered tie, Evelyn Bowley; handkerchiefs, Mrs. Alonzo Lord; picture, Mr. and Mrs. Z. McAllister; money, V. H. McAllister; gold watch and chain, father and mother.

I will also mention the presents of Mrs. Evelyn Bowley whose birthday occurred the same Saturday, and was also present: two bowls, mother; glass hair receiver and plate, J. H. Fox and family; bedspread, W. S. Fox and family; cut glass water set, Irving Bowley; necktie, Lillian and Nellie Lord; picture, Mr. and Mrs. Z. McAllister.

Mrs. Fred Stearns and children visited her aunt, Sarah Lord, Sunday.

Oris LeBaron packed his ice the first of last week and has since been working for Doll Stearns. V. H. McAllister and D. W. Nickols were packing their ice.

B. Hartford McAllister was injured by being caught between the end of the yoke and a tree when he was driving oxen in the woods for his son-in-law, D. E. McAllister. A physician was called and internal injuries were feared but was able to be dressed the next day. He has continued to gain though he has been very lame and sore.

Don't Grow Bald

Use Parisian Sage. If your hair is getting thin, losing its natural color, or has that matted, lifeless and scraggy appearance, the reason is evident—dandruff and failure to keep the scalp properly nourished.

Parisian Sage applied daily for a week and then occasionally is all that is needed. It removes dandruff with one application; almost immediately stops falling hair and itching heads; invigorates the scalp and makes hair, strong hair, soft, abundant and radiant with life. Equally good for men, women or children—every one needs it.

A large bottle of this delightful hair tonic can be had from Noves' Drug Store or any drug counter for 50 cents. You will surely like Parisian Sage. There is no other "Just as good"—Try it now. 8-9

GIVE THAT PUNY CHILD THIS GUARANTEED REMEDY

If your child is under-weight, listless, unable to get sick easily, it needs a medicine to build its weight and strengthen it. For this purpose there is nothing else we know of that we can so strongly endorse as Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. The remarkable success of this splendid medicine is due to the fact that it contains the substance that feeds the nerves, enriches the blood and furnishes to the entire system the strength, weight, and health-building substances it needs. And, it does all this without injuring the stomach. In fact, Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion is not only pleasant to take, but even the most sensitive stomach is benefited by it, and the digestion improved. On the other hand, it contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs, which most parents object to giving their children. It does its good work by taking hold of the weakness and builds the body up to its natural strength, at the same time making it strong to resist disease.

Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion doesn't build your child up, feed the stunted, puny muscles, and make the little one lively, strong, well, and full of the animal spirits children are meant by nature to have, come back and tell us and get your money back. We don't want you to lose a cent. We think this is no more than fair, and it leaves you no cause to hesitate. For old people, also—for convalescents—for all who are nervous, tired-out, run-down, no matter what the cause—we offer Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion with the same guarantee of entire satisfaction or money back. Sold only to you only by us. $1.00.—P. P. Stone, 143 Main St., Norway, Me.

AFTER SICKNESS OR OPERATION

It is a pathetic mistake to accept drugs or alcoholic mixtures when nature craves nourishment to repair the wasted body and restore the vigor of health.

For forty years the best physicians have relied on the wholesome predigested nourishment in Scott's Emulsion which is totally free from alcohol or opiates.

Scott's Emulsion sharpens the appetite—renews blood—nourishes nerves—strengthens bones and restores the courage of health to make life bright.

Scott's Emulsion sets in action the very forces that promote health: it is pure, rich strength. 13-30

STATE OF MAINE.

County of Oxford, ss:

To the honorable Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, next to be held at Paris, within and for said county, on the second Tuesday of March, A. D. 1914.

Cora Kimball of Batchelders Grant in said county, wife of Charles S. Kimball, respectfully represents: that her maiden name was Cora Goplin; that she was lawfully married to the said Charles S. Kimball at Bath, in said county on the nineteenth day of October, 1902, by the Rev. Mr. Stone, a Minister of the Gospel; that they lived together as husband and wife in said Bath, from the time of their said marriage till October, 1908, when she has always conducted herself towards her said husband as a faithful, true, and affectionate wife; that in said month of October, 1908, the said Charles S. Kimball, utterly deserted her without cause and went to parts to her unknown, since which time she has never seen or heard from him, or received from him any support; that his residence is unknown to her and that she has been unable to ascertain the same though she has used great diligence.

Wherefore she prays that a divorce may be granted to her.

Dated at Bethel, Maine, February 3, 1914.

CORA KIMBALL.

STATE OF MAINE.

County of Oxford, ss:

Then personally appeared the above named Cora Kimball and made oath to the truth of the above libel by her signed, and solemnly that portion of said libel wherein she represents that the residence of the said Charles S. Kimball is unknown to her and can not be ascertained though she has used great diligence.

Before me, H. H. HASTINGS, Justice of the Peace.

STATE OF MAINE.

County of Oxford, ss:

(SEAL) Supreme Judicial Court, in Vacation, February 4, A. D. 1914.

Upon the foregoing libel, ORDERED, That the Libellant give notice to the said Charles S. Kimball, Libellee, to appear before the Justice of our Supreme Judicial Court to be holden at Paris, within and for the County of Oxford, on the second Tuesday of March, A. D. 1914, by publishing an attested copy of said libel, and this order thereon, three weeks successively in the Norway Advertiser, a newspaper printed in Norway, in said County of Oxford, the first publication to be 30 days at least prior to second Tuesday of March, 1914, that he may there and then in our said Court appear and show cause, if any he have, why the prayer of said Libellant should not be granted.

A. R. SAVAGE, Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court.

A true copy of the libel and order of court thereon.

Attest: CHARLES F. WHITMAN, Clerk. 6-8

Notice of Foreclosure.

Whereas, Harry C. Huntress and Mabel H. Stanley, both of Hiram, in the county of Oxford and State of Maine, by their mortgage deed dated Feb seventh, A. D. 1913, and recorded in Oxford Registry of Deeds, Western District, Book 102, Pages 619-621, conveyed to Sewell M. Hobson of Conway, in the county of Carroll and State of New Hampshire the following described real estate, to wit:—

A certain lot or parcel of land with the buildings thereon situated in said Hiram and bounded and described as follows, known as the late Henry C. Huntress homestead farm, said farm is bounded and described, as bounded and described in the following deeds to said Henry C. Huntress, to wit:—Warranty deed from Nathaniel W. Adams, dated March 26th, A. D. 1870, and recorded in Oxford Registry of Deeds, Book 49, Page 292; warranty deed from Elbridge E. Farham dated Dec. 31, A. D. 1870, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, Book 77, Page 241; warranty deed from Calvin F. Bonney, dated Aug. 12th, A. D. 1880, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, Book 50, Page 424; warranty deed from Edward R. Cole dated Feb. 7th, A. D. 1888, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, Book 42, Page 31; warranty deed from William A. Huntress, dated July 14th, A. D. 1892, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, Book 47, Page 21; warranty deed from William Huntress dated Nov. 23, A. D. 1892, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, Book 47, Page 22; and warranty deed from Horace F. Pike and Ervin W. Pike, dated January 18th, A. D. 1898, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, Book 50, Page 382; cleaning and intending to convey the above property as sole heirs of Henry C. Huntress, late of Hiram.

And whereas the said Sewell M. Hobson, by his deed of assignment dated March 8th, A. D. 1913, and recorded in Oxford Registry, Western District, or Deeds, Book 94, Page 471, did assign said Mortgage deed, the note, debt and claim thereby secured to one LeRoy F. Pike, and the said LeRoy F. Pike, by his deed of assignment as recorded in Oxford Registry, Western District, or Deeds, Book 94, Page 472, did assign said mortgage deed, the note, debt and claim thereby secured to me, the undersigned, and whereas the condition of said mortgage has been broken, now therefore, by reason of the breach of the condition thereof, I claim a foreclosure of said mortgage.

Dated at Paris, Maine, this 9th day of February, A. D. 1914.

Peculiar After Effects of Grip This Year.

Leaves Kidneys In Weakened Condition.

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are often very distressing and leaves the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary trouble which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to dangerous kidney troubles. Druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root, on receipt of ten cents, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince any one who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50c. and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure and mention this paper. 6-9

ESSEX HIGH GRADE ANIMAL FERTILIZERS

DO NOT EXPERIMENT with unknown brands on the crops you plan to raise, as you may lose the whole season. Use Essex High Grade Fertilizers which have been tested by actual results per acre. I had a good crop of corn raised on XXX, considering the dry season. I shall use no more another season than this. W. A. JEWELL, Waldo County, Me.

"SHALL USE MORE ANOTHER SEASON." The Essex Fertilizers have given me the best of satisfaction, and I raised potatoes on the Complete Manure the rate of 40 bushels per acre. I had a good crop of corn raised on XXX, considering the dry season. I shall use no more another season than this. W. A. JEWELL, Waldo County, Me.
